

ROAD MUST BUILD TO RIFLE RANGE

Norfolk-Southern Believed to Be Ready to Provide Rail Facilities.

MAY PAY HONORS TO NALLE

Sale Takes Action on Death. School Officials Meet at Farmville.

Although the Norfolk-Southern Railroad has not yet come forward with the necessary papers insuring its already promised part in making the new State rifle range and camp site near Virginia Beach available, it is believed that the railroad will soon make the proper arrangements. At the time when the proposition was made to the State to accept the gift of the rifle range, it was stated that the railroad would spend as much money as necessary in extending its electric lines to the property and in providing terminal facilities. The company now declares that the road stands ready to spend $25,000, or as much thereof as may be necessary.

As a matter of fact, this will have to be done. The State Military Board declines to spend a cent of money in improving and equipping the property until binding agreements have been signed by the Norfolk-Southern. The Virginia Beach life will be extended to the camp site, and a station is to be built on or near the grounds. It will be no longer necessary, if no further delays are experienced, to have the good shots of the Virginia volunteers go to another State for the try-out as a preliminary to the election of a State rifle team for the national matches at Camp Perry, O. The detail went to Morhead City, N. C. this year, at considerable expense and trouble to the State. However, it is not probable that the property can be used next year as a camp site for the troops. If the past policy of the War Department is maintained, a joint camp will be held next year, alternating with the State annual meeting of the Conference of Division Superintendents. This body meets each year as a component part of the Virginia Educational Conference. But there is so much going on at these gatherings, which the superintendents don't like to miss, that it was deemed best to have a mid-year meeting for the transaction of regular business—such as the practical end of the work of a division superintendent, who is supposed to be next to the people.

SUPERINTENDENTS MEET

Semi-Annual Session of School Officials Held at Farmville. Superintendent J. D. Eggleston, Jr. of the Department of Public Instruction, and Secretary R. C. Stearnes, of the State Board of Education, are at Farmville, in attendance at the semi-annual meeting of the Conference of Division Superintendents. This body meets each year as a component part of the Virginia Educational Conference. But there is so much going on at these gatherings, which the superintendents don't like to miss, that it was deemed best to have a mid-year meeting for the transaction of regular business—such as the practical end of the work of a division superintendent, who is supposed to be next to the people.

FORM NEW BATTALION

Third Unit to be Constituted in Second Infantry. It has now been determined to form a third battalion for the Second Virginia Infantry, so that this regiment, like the other two infantry commands, shall have three battalions. Orders for the formation of the new unit were issued yesterday by Adjutant-General W. W. Sale. It will be necessary to elect a major, and during the encampment at Culpeper this week Colonel R. F. Leedy will hold an election, at which all the line officers of the three companies which are to make up the Third Battalion, will participate. Company A, of Staunton; Company B, of Culpeper, and Company H, of Harrisonburg, are to compose the new division. The new Company I, of Winchester, is transferred to the First Battalion, which will in future consist of the Winchester command, with

TRIBUTE TO NALLE

General Sale Authorities Such Action as Family May Desire. In recognition of the loss sustained in the death of former Adjutant-General William Nalle, instructions were given yesterday that due notice be taken by the troops in camp at Culpeper. Adjutant-General F. E. telegraphed General C. Vaughan, Jr. in command at Culpeper, asking him to confer with the family of General Nalle and to take whatever action he deemed advisable after such a conference.

It is presumed that the family desires a military funeral to be held. The entire Second Infantry, which is now in camp, might be utilized. General Sale also conveyed his regrets to the family.

Pertinent Comment

BY GUS MALBERT
Gulcher, now that he is out of a job, will more than likely accept the proposition made him. He is hitting well, or has been, and will be able to jump right into the game. Priest will be turned back to New York. He has not shown up well here, even though he has been hitting fairly well. By turning Priest back $500 will be saved the local treasury.

Lucia is regarded as a great little catcher, and is in shape to take his share regularly in the box to aid Cowan. This will give the manager a chance to do something besides working behind the mask. He will be able to give more attention to unifying his team and to pulling off some of the inside stuff, which has been lacking for a long time.

Along with Lucia will probably come Pitcher Hogue, who, at one time was reported to have been sold to Washington. It appears that he was sold at all. At any rate, he will report here, and will be given a tryout, one of the present staff being suspended in the meanwhile. Hogue looks good, but so many of the would-be stars, or near-stars who have drifted this way have proved their unfitness that comment is reserved until something is shown.

Tell me gently, stranger, but we lost again yesterday. However, there remains the gratification that we made those blasted Goobers extend themselves to the very utmost to do it.

Here's offering the half of a princely salary to get rid of that fellow Bruckmiller. At one time it looked as if the Colts were well on the way to ending the Kibosh which the youngster has all during the season heaped on the locals, but it lasted only one inning. After that he squirmed and wiggled until not a single Colt could believe enough courage to cross the line. Johnny Verbout did his part. He pitched the very best game of any delivered by him this season, and was as strong as a bull when he pitched. It was simply a case of not being able to do harm to the other fellow.

Only one criticism can be made of anything the Colts did, not mentioning the errors, one of which can be counted as excusable—that made by Eckel—and the other not hurting any. The criticism comes as a result of allowing Martin to sacrifice in the fourth inning. The only man who could have been expected to hit Cowan, Eckel and Verbout followed, and this one was named, and not one of them could be expected to hit. Had Mattie been allowed to hit it, he may have landed safely, which would have put Martin on third, and a sacrifice fly would then have turned the trick.

McCabe made the star catch, though it was a star largely because he misjudged Keilher's fly ball. Anyway, he caught it over his head, and it helped because a man was on.

Mr. How they do love Fender in Petersburg. He was called the pet names in the lexicon, and truth to tell, several of his decisions looked as if they were against the home team. He put Johnson out of the park, and the story goes that the sole provocation was that the pitcher notified Cowan that a runner had been hit by Martie ball. Along with his vamooses went a fine.

Danville licked Norfolk and Roanoke trimmed Lynchburg, which puts the Goobers in second place by half a game. What a yell went forth from the grandstand when the inning rally of the Meigs City side was tacked up!

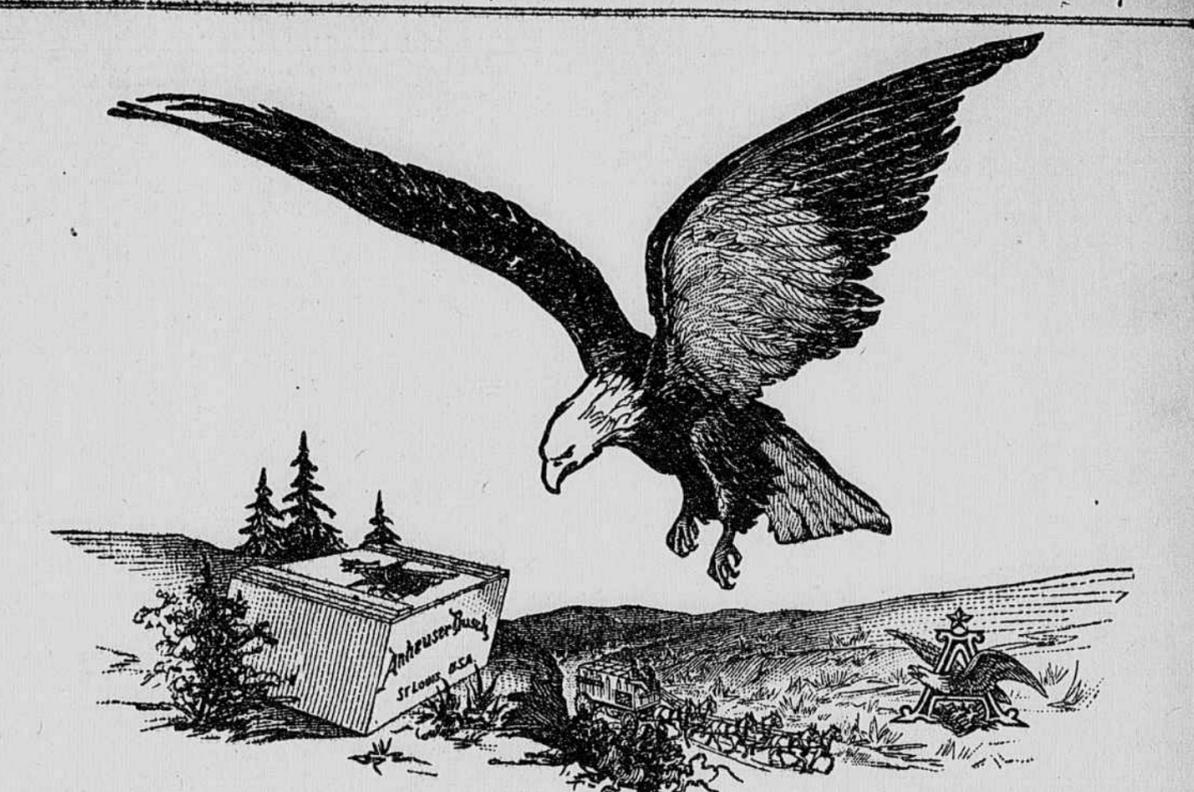

Over in Petersburg they do not hesitate to say that they are out for the pennant and are going to finish in second place any day now. They are in the market for ball players, and a job on the Goobers team is as unafraid as a paper hat in a rain storm. They had eyes out for Dobson, and were willing to give a piece of money and Keilher for the local initial sack. Then they wanted Willie Baker, and are now after Bobbie Vail, who was with the defunct Portsmouth Tidewater outfit.

Heinie Busch deserves a lot of credit for what he has done, though he has been ably championed by the men who own the team. It is a matter of civic pride with them, and a few dollars will not stand in their way.

Umpire Nugent, who went from this league to the Carolina Association, writes Owner Bradley asking for a post-season series of games with an all-star team from his league. A favorable answer has been withheld until later.

Now comes the plaint from Suffolk that the team representing that town in the Tidewater has been paid off to date, and that hereafter the players will continue on a co-operative plan. This smacks very much of success. There were those 1,700, those 2,000 and those 2,400 crowds!

Detroit goes on her way still proud of holding first place in the American League. The Athletics have nothing to be ashamed of. Three out of four is a pretty good record for the series, and when it is realized that they finish the season at home, Detroit can't feel so secure.
